

PITCH DECK

DATA-DRIVEN RETAIL MARKETING

Prepared for Stakeholders & Executive Leadership

Executive Summary & Baseline Performance

Balanced demand supports multi-segment messaging rather than single-product discounting.

STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY

Consistent purchasing velocity and balanced demand create a strong base for targeted, cross-category campaigns.

Product Category Revenue & Basket Dynamics

Three balanced business verticals create a strong cross-sell opportunity.

CAMPAIGN OPPORTUNITY • Cross-pollinate shoppers between categories instead of relying on deep single-category discounting.

Customer Demographic Segmentation

Spending is broadly distributed, with the strongest concentration across ages 26–55.

SEGMENT INSIGHT

The 46–55 cohort generated the highest revenue in the dataset, while gender spend remains close to parity.

Cross-Category Product Bundling Strategy

Target: lift basket size from 2.51 units toward 3.2 units.

UNIT ECONOMICS • The strategy is designed to grow units per transaction and increase average transaction value through curated cross-category offers.

Segmented Lifecycle Marketing & Automation

CRM goal: improve engagement through demographic and lifecycle-based trigger flows.

Marketing Mix & Media Budget Allocation

Total campaign budget: $65,000 • Projected incremental gross profit: $82,000.

MEDIA PRINCIPLE • Balance acquisition with retention so campaign growth is not dependent on paid media alone.

Expected ROI & Performance Lift

Campaign economics connect marketing activity to measurable revenue and margin outcomes.
